Hanover Township to Host Property Appeals Seminar

Hanover Township Assessor Khaja Moinuddin and Supervisor Brian P. McGuire will host a property appeals seminar at 6:00PM on Thursday, November 20 at the Senior Center, 240 S. IL Route 59, Bartlett.

The Cook County Assessor's Office will present on the assessment appeals process and explain how to determine if an appeal should be filed. County staff will also walk attendees through the appeals process. A question-and-answer session will also follow the presentation. Registration is not required.

"Under the best circumstances, determining how the county assesses properties can be very complicated and frustrating to many," said Hanover Township Assessor Khaja Moinuddin. "With this seminar, residents can hear firsthand from staff on how property is assessed and how appeals can be filed to lower those assessments."

Hanover Township is open for appeals with the Cook County Assessor's Office through December 22.

Attendees are encouraged to bring their reassessment letters to the seminar.

The seminar is also co-sponsored by Cook County Commissioner Kevin Morrison, State Senator Cristina Castro, State Senator Karina Villa, State Representative Fred Crespo, State Representative Anna Moeller, and State Representative Maura Hirschauer.
